The aim of Liverpool Women's Charity

Liverpool Women's Charity raises funds to provide equipment and services for Liverpool Women's, above what is normally provided by the NHS.

Liverpool Women's Hospital has had a presence in Liverpool since 1796, it has moved location several times and evolved into the world leading specialist hospital that we know and love today.

Each year Liverpool Women's delivers over 8,000 babies cares for 1,000 poorly babies on its neonatal unit and undertakes around 10,000 gynaecological procedures; with 50,000 patients crossing its door each year.

From the very beginning the hospital has had a strong charitable presence and it is due to supporters like you that we are now extremely fortunate to have the largest specialist hospital in the UK right on our doorstep.

Future wishes for Liverpool Women's and how your donation can help to achieve them

Liverpool Women's is proud and excited for the future of its services. With your help we can continue to be at the forefront of health care for women and their babies, now and for future generations to come.

You can choose exactly which part of the hospital you would like to make a difference to. You may like to

- support the work of our Neonatal nurses and doctors, who look after very sick babies on our Neonatal Unit
- help our Fetal Medicine Unit to progress in its work to treat babies before they have even been born
- provide additional comforts for our patients who are suffering from gynaecological cancers
- fund exciting research into areas that will revolutionise the future care of women and babies
- help the work of our Honeysuckle Bereavement Team, who support families who have experienced a baby loss
- donate to our General Purpose fund, to be used at the hospital's discretion

We promise that our Fundraising Team will work closely with you to ensure your donations will be spent in line with your wishes, to provide additional services and equipment, for an organisation that has been trusted by generations of the people of Liverpool and beyond.

Why is leaving a charity donation in your will so important?

Many people feel uncomfortable discussing wills and legacies, however to most people who leave a legacy this will be the largest donation you ever make to a charity and one that will make a lasting difference to many people for many years to come, it is indeed your lasting legacies to those you leave behind.

Joan Davis Story

An extraordinary woman who spent her working life within the Archdiocese of Liverpool.

In 2002 Joan became the first ever woman to hold the post of Chancellor. Joan passed away in October 2012, aged 64, after a long battle with cancer.

Joan was so renowned and respected by the community that she was offered the Cathedral for her funeral, however instead Joan chose her parish church.

The list of dignitaries who attended Joan's funeral served to confirm the great difference Joan had made in her life and she decided she wanted to continue to make a difference after her death by leaving a donation to the Liverpool Women's Charity.

Helping people was Joan's main aim in life and it is very fitting that, even though she is no longer with us, she continues to support people both now and in the future with her generous donation.

In memory gifts

Liverpool Women's Charity works with several companies that provide in memory offerings.

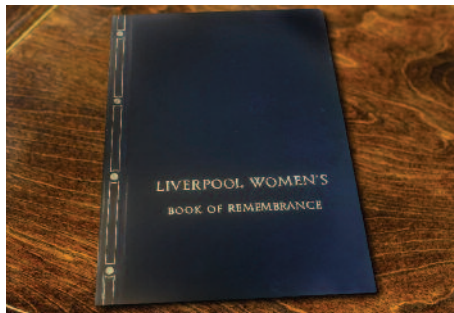

Memory Garden and Tree

Situated next to the main reception is the charity Memory Garden. A feature of the garden is the Memory Tree, which is a steel structure in the shape of a tree. Families are able to purchase locks that are personally engraved with their own message and then placed on the tree. For every lock sold a donation of £5 is made to the charity. If you would like to purchase a lock please visit www.4everlocks.co.uk.

Remembrance Book

The charity also has a leather bound Remembrance Book, which is situated in the hospital Quiet Room. The page of the book is turned daily and for a donation to the charity an entry can be made in to the book.

Hug a Mug

A loved ones precious handprint beautifully glazed on a ceramic mug. A cherished memory that will warm your hands and your heart every time you use it.

As you drink from your mug place your hand on your loved ones handprint and feel the warm hug as their handprint gently warms yours.
